WEATHER FORECAST.

Increased cloudiness tonight. Friday probably snow by 11 a. m. or night; not much change in temperature. Northwesterly winds becoming fresh Friday.

THE GARDEN.

Evidently the two editors in these columns which referred to the use of waste ground, vacant lots, back yards and other places, has caused some unfavorable comment, for no less than three anonymous communications have been received, each containing pertinent questions were asked as to the real purpose of the "back to the soil" movement, as one writer termed it.

It is not difficult to analyze the animus that inspired the communications referred to. One, in particular, has been traced to a person who owns considerable vacant property. He refers to the thought that some of the citizens with an excess of land loan it to others who have none to raise crops or vegetables. The idea is termed socialistic, in fact anarchistic. Perhaps it is, but the fact remains that the vacant lots that might be put to use would not deteriorate their land value and would enable some family to cut down the excessive cost of living materially.

Another writer asks if the land is to be confiscated? If we are now at war and must plow up our lawns and flower gardens to raise produce? Ridiculous the idea that food is high and the cost of living excessive. There is but one answer to such an argument. If some of the hot heads in this country had their way we would be, but thank fortune we are not, and have no ambitious thoughts of conquest to urge us into conflict. There is no thought to confiscate the land of any individual. It must be freely donated to a public use. No necessity to plow up lawns to reduce the U. S. L. but perhaps, if this coming year's crops are not sufficient, it may be later. Finally, prices are higher than for many years past, and the average workers feel the increased cost.

Another communication asks if a plot of potatoes, with the bushes and accompanying disfigurement, would materially increase the price of real estate in the immediate vicinity? Perhaps the writer of this communication has some lots that they failed to clean the snow and ice off the sidewalks during the past winter, through which they did not have to tramp because they owned an electric car, an enclosed car, a Packard, a Ford, a Buick, a Cadillac, a Duesenberg, or any other car should not deteriorate the value of adjacent real estate in this day and age, particularly if the plot of ground was being used to help a family drive the wolf from the door during the coming winter.

The idea was merely a suggestion in view of the facts that other cities have started the movement. However, the use of vacant land, wherever possible, for the growing of crops, is urged. The Gazette is publishing a series of articles carefully prepared by the national government department of agriculture, and also by the state university of gardening, and side from that Prof. West of the high school writes articles and answers questions on gardens and the care of them, so there is plenty of opportunity to gain information for even the amateur.

The fact remains that a small garden works more benefits than one first, in a financial saving, and second, in health; this asset is as important as the first. Getting back to Mother Nature is one of the essentials to good health. The old saying was, "Healthy, wealthy and wise." Take the first and the last and the second will take care of itself, for with the two others the wealth will come if it is to be attained by you and if not, the wealth without health and wisdom would not count for much.

CONGRESS IS READY.

If we are to believe all the press reports that emanate from either a rapid republican or a mild democratic source, the organization of the house of representatives for the sixty-fifth congress that convened April 10th, is to be either republican or democratic, for it is pay your money and take your choice on the reports. The average citizen just at this period does not apparently care whether the house is to be republican or democratic, so long as they organize and get down to business of standing behind the president and upholding the honor and integrity of the national government.

The senate has apparently paved the way for definite action by their decision to prevent filibustering in the future to the detriment of national business. This is a step toward organization that is well taken and it is expected that the house will follow suit, bury its political differences, organize for business and get down to work without the necessity of political hickories and underground tactics to secure results.

President Wilson has done well to call congress into extra session, and until the present crisis is over he should keep them in session to handle matters which may come up for consideration which needs the decision of the representatives of the people and not the opinion of one man or one circle of men who may be of the same mind. It is an important period in the history of the United States, and what the result of the arming of the ships may result in is hard to estimate until it has actually been tried, it may mean war and it may mean observance of the rules of civilized war on the part of the warring nations.

TO ENFORCE LAW.

Sheriff Robert Whipple sounded the warning to all retail liquor dealers that as long as he is sheriff they must refrain from furnishing any prisoner in his charge with liquor, under penalty of the law. As there is no means for the retail liquor dealers to learn just who is on the sheriff's list, he is keeping in close touch with the court convictions, it is going to prove a difficult task at best. However, the sheriff is acting well within the law, which places a penalty of not less than thirty days or more than six months in the county jail for such an offense and also includes any person who furnishes a county prisoner with liquor he may have bought himself. This will make this so-called "commitment law" much stronger than hitherto and really place a punishment upon those convicted under its provision. Sheriff Whipple is to be congratulated upon the stand he has taken and it is to be said that liquor dealers will realize the risk they run if they disobey the law's requirements.

WILL THE WOMEN SMOKE?

Many social changes will follow this war, everyone admits. Daily life and social manners of Europe are being upset. The new practices and customs following incidentally from the war will spread over here. A dispatch from London says that cigarette smoking has become so universal among women war workers, that some of the London suburban railways are establishing women's smoking compartments on certain trains. Does that mean that smoking by women will soon become general here?

Among the higher ups of this country smoking by women is a somewhat established custom. You can't argue it out that it is any worse for women than for men. But somehow it seems repugnant to the great majority of our middle class women.

The attitude of men on such matters is wholly illogical. They are constantly condemning women for doing the things they do themselves. A great many of the men smokers would be a bit shocked to see their wives and daughters lighting up. But woman is a law unto herself, and if she sees fit to smoke up, she will and there's an end on't.

THE MILK QUESTION.

Together with the food problem and increased cost comes the problem of pure milk. Perhaps no liquid needs the attention in the food products line so much as does milk, and yet Janesville, with other communities, has not safeguarded the interests of the consumers by passing and enforcing suitable milk ordinances requiring a certain standard of all milk to be delivered for consumption in the city, including proper tests for tuberculosis and other bovine diseases. A recent inspection of fifty dairy farms that supply Janesville with their milk showed that sixty-six per cent of the animals had not been properly tested for tuberculosis. It is to be hoped that the council will see fit to take this matter up and give it serious consideration in the interest of public health and welfare.

If an American ship-owner doesn't sail his ship regardless of submarines, he is cowardly and lacking enterprise, and if he does sail he is taking reckless chances and is not entitled to protection.

Formerly to make money on foods you had to invest several millions to corner the supply. Now you merely get a few newspapers to insert an article saying the supply is short.

Formerly the business man worried at night for fear he wasn't making money; now he worries for fear he didn't lock the warehouse door where the potatoes are kept.

Of course if we have war we must be governed by the high ideals of our pacifist friends, and not fire on the enemy until they have had plenty of time to get under cover.

The elaborate display of the inauguration exercises will be severely condemned by those who went to Washington and didn't get an office.

The new congress will enter its duties resolutely determined on economy in order to get more public buildings and river and harbor work.

When congress adjourned without doing anything, it again vindicated its title of being the leading debating society of the world.

Spring Hat day will be observed by large numbers of our citizens by very extensive and exhaustive brushing of last fall's headgear.

It is claimed the United States is drunk with gold, but there are quite a number of bone dry localities in this neighborhood.

About the only way the United States can get accurate information about its military resources is to ask the foreign spies.

It is quite possible that Uncle Sam is not so verdant and unsophisticated a youth as he looks in some foreign capitals.

The leak investigating committee cost $50,000, and its reports were worth it as good fireside reading.

In view of the diplomatic intrigue revelations, leaders are in more favor than they were recently.

There is no lack of overt acts on the part of the food speculators.

The Daily Novelette

THE SLEEPERS.

(Synopsis of preceding chapters: Crooked Eyes, a devil among the ladies in the stone age, decides that his brother, Gimp's girl, Fairface, is entirely too nice a Dinosaur (stone age slang for "chicken") to be wasted on his brother. So, heaving himself a great granite club, he steals in the dark of night to the rocky cave of her ugly mother and there, in the dim light from one side of the modest little dwelling issues the tranquil breathing of a beautiful girl, from the other the raucous snoring of an undesirable old man. Snapping this club light, Crooked Eyes crawls into the cave towards the doozer-skin couch whence comes the gentle sighs of slumber. Knocking the sleeper gently on the head in that spot, just between the temple and the paragonage, that long experience had taught him to be most effective, he seized her long, flowing hair and dashed it into the woods. The girl awoke and ran and ran and runs until, in the first streak of dawn, he turns to have a look at his captive).

Conclusion.
"By all the iron-tailed gnats!" cried Crooked Eyes, and swooned with a great, crashing thud.
The gentle sleeper had been the homely mother.
The end.

REPORT INSURANCE INVESTMENT MEASURE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., March 15.—The assembly committee on insurance and banking has reported for passage, in amended form, the Everett bill designating the investments that may be made by domestic life insurance companies. The bill has been the subject of long hearings and of much executive session work by the committee. As reported to the house, the measure provides that every life insurance company organized in this state may invest in authorized bonds or other evidences of indebtedness of the United States or of any other state, or of the Dominion of Canada, or the provinces or cities thereof; in lawfully authorized bonds of cities, towns, villages or school districts in the United States; in loans upon improved and unimproved real estate in the United States; in mortgage bonds of any railway or street railway company in the United States; in the mortgage bonds of farm loan banks, authorized under the federal farm loan act; in loans upon the security of its own policies and in loans upon its own securities, authorized above, not exceeding the market value of such securities.

One of the suggestions in connection with the proposed military drill of major league ball players is that Bill O'Hara, now a lieutenant in the Canadian contingent and home on leave of absence, be invited to make a tour of the training camps and tell his fellow ball players just what war is. When O'Hara describes the heaps of rotting corpses, the awful gories of the butchered and disemboweled victims of royal pride and commercial greed, and all that the ball players, doubtless, will be more keen than ever to get in the fighting line.

SUBMIT ARGUMENTS FOR AND AGAINST WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., March 15.—Women made the arguments for and against suffrage before the senate committee on state affairs yesterday afternoon. Less than two hours' time was occupied by the hearing and an executive session will probably be held on the measure this afternoon. The suffragists urged the passage of the Skogmo bill which would submit the question to a vote of the people at the November election in 1918. The anti-suffragists urged the passage of the Reinhold bill, which would submit to a vote of the women of the state the question of whether they desired suffrage.

Dr. A. T. Rasmussen, La Crosse, opened the argument for the Skogmo bill said he could see no argument against extending suffrage to women. He could see some good in extending suffrage and believed that the measure was of such importance that the voters should be allowed to pass on the question.

Urges Suffrage Cause.
Lola K. Matthews of the economic department of the university said that it was five years since the question had been submitted and a good many things had changed in the meantime. She declared that great problems were before the people of the future and it required the brains of all to settle them.

"As a pure business proposition I think women should share this responsibility with the men," said Matthews. "We are asking for humane legislation and we should know the cost of it. We will realize these things if we are allowed to share the responsibility with the men."

Lula K. Stearns said she was a Wisconsin citizen and asked "for the opportunity to help along." The women of the country are interested in all vital problems and we only ask the opportunity to aid in the settlement of them. She read a long list of states where suffrage exists, but branded "pretentious suffrage" as a makeshift. This movement of all of the states falling in line for suffrage keeps on the people of Wisconsin will have to take to the trenches in said state.

She said that although she was taxed, she had no vote in saying how and for what this tax money was to be spent. "You say that women are virtually represented and that this taxation is thus no tyranny," continued Miss Stearns. "Such an argument is an insult and has no basis in history. There is no such thing as virtual representation."

Miss Stearns told of being in Texas the other day and having a member of the legislature object to suffrage because women could not bear arms. "But the women have to bear the soldiers and they want us to bear the burden of the war," she said. "We are asked to bear the burden of the war and we are not allowed to vote."

Opposition Heard From.
Mrs. Francis E. Day, Milwaukee, speaking in opposition said that she wanted the ballot so as to seek office. "If the same energy was used by the men in this house," continued Mrs. Day, "as is used in soliciting campaign funds for suffrage, there never would have been the story of the child who asked his father who the woman was and the father said 'the woman who asked me who the woman was'."

Mrs. Day urged the Reinhold bill to determine whether women really wanted the ballot. "If the women vote they desire the ballot, we will yield," said Mrs. Day. The committee then took up the Reinhold bill to submit the question of suffrage to a vote of the women. Senator Reinhold said that the bill was offered at the suggestion of the anti-suffrage organization. He declared that he had studied that organization and found that in Milwaukee where the women have an opportunity to vote on school matters, they do not avail themselves of the opportunity. He declared that he did not think there was much sentiment for it, because no one had written him in favor of suffrage.

Ridicules Reinhold Bill.
"Do the women want to vote?" asked Miss Stearns. "It was given to them outright. Never has a disfranchised class had the vote for the ballot. It was given to the women of Milwaukee and they did not want it. The women of the home did not want this suffrage. She declared the place for the woman was in home. 'You can't think right when you are thinking so loudly,' declared Mrs. Stearns. She favored the Reinhold bill.

Miss Ada James, Richland Center, opposed the Reinhold bill declaring if the same question of securing 60 percent of the vote as is asked of the women were submitted to the men, they might be a disfranchised class. Joseph J. Straw, Madison, also opposed the Reinhold bill. She said that the question was submitted to the people of Massachusetts several years ago and the vote was five to one in favor of the women. "Yet the men have still refused to grant suffrage."

Mrs. M. A. B. Smith, Miss Grick and Miss Stearns urged the Skogmo bill. Mrs. Stearns said there were 8,000,000 women in the country who had to work for a living and desired the ballot.

OPPOSE A NEW COURT
IN OUTGAMING COUNTY
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Appleton, Wis., March 15.—The Outgaming Bar association is making strenuous efforts to head off the bill that Senator Kuckuk has in the Wisconsin legislature regarding the formation of a new municipal court in Seymour which would serve in conjunction with the Appleton court. While supporters of the measure say it is too far to come to Appleton, those opposing the measure say that it would be an unnecessary expense to the county, and that it is being furthered for the benefit of a few office seekers in Seymour.

SEVEN HUNDRED FARMERS
AT MADISON GATHERING
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Madison, Wis., March 15.—Delegates to the farmers' and bankers' so-called second annual excursion, swarmed into Madison to the number of 700 who crowded the university stock pavilion to hear George Bartlett, Milwaukee, and Dean H. L. Russell, representing respectively the farmers and bankers. The union of farmers and bankers in Wisconsin was born a few years ago by about ten men, and has increased rapidly from year to year. Delegates are here from North Lake, Josine, Grand Rapids, Janesville, Beloit, Watertown and other cities.

LA CROSSE REORGANIZES
BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
La Crosse, March 15.—The common council ended a four year fight by abolishing the board of public works and vesting the power in the mayor, the city attorney and the controller, making city engineer George P. Grady, the head of the department.

EVANSVILLE PEOPLE BITE ON OLD GAME

Get Dollar and Half Magazine for Year for Forty Cents. "To Aid Girl Get College Education."

Evansville, March 15.—Many of the leading citizens of Evansville were wondering yesterday afternoon (and some of them are still wondering) if they had been victimized by a pretty face, accompanying a touching appeal for aid in the securing of a college scholarship and a real bargain in the purchase of a year's subscription to a popular national magazine at regular "fire sale" prices. Think of it! A year's subscription to the magazine for forty cents, and at that a chance to be charitable and assist a pretty, conquest-crazed lady to secure a college education. Armed with this proposition, magazines were selling like hot-cakes until Chief of Police Gilman appeared on the scene of action and began sizing up the situation. The young lady was asked to report at headquarters and did so. All past experience has proven that such magazines have been used to secure a college education. Armed with this proposition, magazines were selling like hot-cakes until Chief of Police Gilman appeared on the scene of action and began sizing up the situation. The young lady was asked to report at headquarters and did so. All past experience has proven that such magazines have been used to secure a college education.

Due to such experience it has been the rule of the local police department not to allow such canvasses of the city unless proper credentials are presented. This, the young lady in question could not do. She declared that her proposition was first presented to the names of the parties sold to during the day. Owing to the fact that the experience of the department shows such magazine sales to be a fraud and because she could not furnish the names of the parties sold to during the day, she was asked to cease her canvass and to depart on the first train. This she did. After her departure, it became known to the police headquarters that there were at least two young ladies working in conjunction and that they were accompanied by two young men. The later discovery has not served to furnish the minds of the police that they were at least two young ladies working in conjunction and that they were accompanied by two young men.

The L. T. L. will hold a declamatory contest on Friday evening of this week at the library hall. The contest will begin at seven-thirty sharp. Sixteen boys and girls will compete for the cash prizes, which are offered by the friends of the society. The contest is to encourage the participants in the contest. The admission is free. Miss Helen Richards returned Monday from Louisville, where she is helping in care for her uncle, who is ill.

Mrs. Richard Carson is reported to be ill. Mrs. George Shaw was happily surprised at her home by the birthday club, which tendered her a party and assisted in the celebration of her birthday anniversary. Rockwood Porter is reported to be ill at his home in Cooksville.

J. Spencer Pullen and Miss Annette Maxwell of Galesville, Wisconsin, were united in marriage today at the home of the bride's parents in Galesville. Miss Maxwell was formerly a teacher in the public school of this city and is well known in this city. Mr. and Mrs. George Pullen of those this city were present at the ceremony.

Sheriff Whipple of Janesville was here Tuesday. Max Fisher of Milwaukee arrived in this city Tuesday evening for a visit with his mother and brother. The Pythian Sisters entertained Tuesday evening at a card party in the Pythian lodge room. Rev. D. C. Grubb of Fort Atkinson is visiting in this city.

The Congregational Reading Circle was entertained Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Peters. Mrs. John Vair of Waushara, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Angles. E. C. Upoff is on a business trip throughout southern Wisconsin.

May Webb is reported to be on the sick list. The Tuesday evening club was entertained at the Greene home on West Main street by Miss Ruth Wilson. Mrs. Stella Bullard was a Beloit visitor on Tuesday.

The dramatic club was entertained Tuesday evening by Miss Evelyn Swan at the home of Mrs. Lyman Johnson. Miss Pearl Swaggett, who has been visiting at the home of Miller young returned to her home in Viola, Wis., Tuesday.

The Daughters of Ruth were entertained Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. P. P. Cotton. The Queen Esther Circle was entertained Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert Hartley.

"THE PARISH PRIEST" TO BE GIVEN SUNDAY

Local Talent to Present Charming Little Irish Play in Celebration of St. Patrick's Day.

On Sunday, March 18, there will be presented at the Myers Theatre "The Parish Priest," a local talent play, under the auspices of the Hibbertian societies. This play differs from the usual run of Irish plays in that it has an American setting, the scene of the play being in a small mining village on the west coast, where men and women mix on a plane of equality. Paula marries Topham, but instead of realizing the happiness she had anticipated, she finds that her husband is only interested in her money. Allen Collier, her former admirer, comes to her assistance, but circumstances make it appear that Paula is only using Allen for selfish ends, and he turns against her. When he returns to listen to her explanation, Topham is preparing to desert Paula. But before he can do this, he is shot dead by a hand that reaches through the curtains of his room. Allen enters the house as the shot rings out, and Paula comes on the scene from an opposite door. Each thinks the other has fired the revolver, and a scene of great tension ensues. The incidents connected with the clearing up of the mystery, and the bringing together of the estranged lovers combine to make a play of unusual grip.

THIS IS CLEVER.
"I am not going to get married."
"I do not want to marry you."
"I have one bungalow now; I do not want another."
"I can earn my own living, thank you."
"I live with my mother."
"I am perfectly contented as I am."
This is what Lillian Hamilton has had printed on postal cards. She sends them out to those who offer themselves in marriage.

Mr. Chapin, whose year's contract at $870,000 is expiring, is said to have a new offer of $1,000,000. But most producers think his value hasn't increased during 1916. His next picture is "The Health Resort."

James Cruze, husband of Marguerite Snow, has been engaged by a producer. Mr. Cruze has been out of pictures for a time, having broken his leg while making a feature production.

As Paula Letchworth in "A Woman's Awakening," Seena Owen returns to the screen late this month in the role of a beautiful girl, who comes from a family where the women are protected from the hard realities of life. A clever young lawyer loves her, but she listens instead to the suit of Lawrence Topham, who tells her of the joy of the real world, where men and women mix on a plane of equality. Paula marries Topham, but instead of realizing the happiness she had anticipated, she finds that her husband is only interested in her money. Allen Collier, her former admirer, comes to her assistance, but circumstances make it appear that Paula is only using Allen for selfish ends, and he turns against her. INDIAN, AGED 85 YEARS, GETS HUNTING LICENSE

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
La Crosse, March 15.—"Uncle John" (name withheld) has been issued an aged Indian to County Clerk Bert A. Jolivet, Wednesday.

Jolivet went through the usual routine and discovered the oldest hunter in his jurisdiction. John is eighty-five years of age and still has and hearty and anxious to go after the game. He is an Indian, and lives near Midway, this county. John was an Indian brave long before the stars were settled in La Crosse, and remember when the buffalo ran over the prairie in herds of thousands.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I met a man at a dance last winter. I certainly fell in love with him. I was "in love at first sight." I would go to the dance every week (I used to dance with this young man very often and after the dance he always asked to take me home.

I was going with another young man at the time and of course, he took me out for a few times and spent every cent he ever had on me. At the time I did not think when this man came to me, but later I found out he was a gambler and a very heavy drinker.

I never let this other young man take me home when he asked me to go down to see me. I told him I could not. I am very sorry as I have heard from several girls that he has been very much.

Would it be proper for me to write him a note and apologize for being so mean? I would like to see him and keep company with him. While I was going to the dances he used to ask to come down to see me, but I always told him I did not care to see him. I did not say this because the other young man was very jealous over me and threatened me if I would go with anyone else.

(2) I am nineteen and have dark brown hair. It is very short around my forehead, as it has been curling and have turned it off. What can I put on it to make it grow? My hair is also split at the ends. What can I do to stop this?

THANK YOU.
(3) Sometime if you are having a young couple at your home, it will be all right to have him, too. I wouldn't write and ask him to call if I were you. You had your chance to go with him and let it slip by. Now that you have changed your mind, it would not look well to tell him to call or singe the split ends of his hair.

RESTING ON THE CAR.

"Aren't you tired to death?" I asked my neighbor yesterday, when I saw her at night coming home from a whole day's shopping. It happened to have that she had been having a session of strenuous days all the week.

"Oh no," she said cheerfully. "I was pretty tired when I got through, but I stopped and took a cup of tea, and then you know I rested all the way out in the car. I feel quite fine now."

That's what! Most Women Would Have Pitted Themselves.

But you know a great many people who would have said self-pityingly, "And then I had that long ride on top of all the rest."

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

TINNITUS, AS FOLKS WOULD SAY

Tinkling, ringing, roaring, buzzing, and other noises in the ears, or tinnitus, as the doctors call it, in their usual fashion of tackling a large name about, is an annoying symptom which brings a great many discomforting letters to this department. The sufferer simply says: "Please advise me what to do to relieve head noises, from which I have suffered for twenty years. And we look the letter over, up, wide and down the other, for a vain endeavor to discover any stray data upon which to base the advice sought."

The other day—a very cold, cheerless day—it was a few hours off to browse in the library, and the following facts concerning head noises are all we have to share with you. A common cause of tinnitus is hardened wax in the ear canals. Characteristic of this condition is sudden onset, and the reverberation of the subject's own voice as in talking in a barrel. It is exceedingly dangerous to attempt to dig this hardened plug of wax out. It should be syringed out with warm water solution.

Injury of the ear drum, and injury or disease of the auditory nerve, are occasional causes of head noises. Acute middle ear abscess ("gathering in the ear") is often preceded by ringing or head noises. The taking of quinine is a notorious cause of ringing in the ears and of middle ear congestion. The quinine which more commonly cause it are salicylic acid or any of its derivatives (salicylate of soda, aspirin, etc.), and tobacco and alcoholic indulgence over a long period are common factors of head noises.

Probably the most frequent cause is chronic middle ear disease, or otitis media, of the middle ear, dependent upon chronic troubles in the nasal cavity or throat in practically every case. Weak heart, arterial disease, high blood pressure and chronic lung or bronchial disease causing congestion of the brain may be the explanation of tinnitus.

In young people pronounced anemia is often a cause of annoying head noises which are in rhythm with the pulse beat.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
For Weak, Tired Eyes.
Please give me a bath for weak, tired eyes. (W. M. K.)
Answer—All right, step right this way to the shower. Try a nitrogen oxygen mixture. It is very effective. You go out into the street, throw out your chest, pull in your stomach, dig your chin under your collar, and walk briskly along, winking both eyes together about seven times a block, till you have covered twenty or thirty-five blocks. Then return with the same schedule. It brightens the eyes wonderfully. Maybe you have eyestrain. We all have it—a perfect human eye is practically unknown. The general health is reduced through bad hygiene, the strain is felt. When the health is improved by good hygiene, the eyestrain is relieved. Many obtain relief through hygiene.

Contribution of G. S. L.
I found that two weeks in bed, with a six cent milk a day, increased my weight 11 pounds. Two patients left here (a sanitarium) recently, one man who had gained 36 pounds in 4 weeks, another woman who had gained 24 pounds in four weeks, on a glass of orange juice before milk at 7 a. m., followed in half an hour by the first glass of milk, and a glass of milk at 10 a. m. or 8 p. m., or longer if desired, 6 quarts being the average for the twenty-four hours. I state this for the possible benefit of some poor devil who is not nourished by anything else in the way of food. This was the case for years with me. (G. S. L.)

Now, then, Grandma! What is the grating of the teeth during sleep, slightly evident soreness around the nostrils, talking and restlessness in sleep, bad breath in the morning, a peaked appearance, and dark circles under the eyes indicative of in a boy of 6 years old? Am I right in my opinion—worms? I have tried numerous so-called worm medicines, but they do not seem to have any influence upon the symptoms. (Mrs. J. A. W.)

Answer—No, not worms. Children who really have worms generally exhibit no symptoms at all, excepting the occasional passing of a worm. If per chance he has worms, then it is a doctor's case. No remedy can be considered effective unless it kills away the worms intact, of course. The symptoms you describe would suggest chronic intestinal indigestion, and we have a monograph about it. I would suggest it. There are no symptoms whatever which warrant a diagnosis of worms, excepting the appearance of worms in the stools, or the discovery of their eggs by microscopical test.

ing the duck. Bake six apples and arrange around duck (on a large platter) alternately with mounds of cranberry jelly. Here and there place a sprig of crisp celery.

Minute Pudding—Minute pudding is a cheap and very good dessert. Take pint of milk, add a pinch of salt, let it come to boiling point, thicken with flour very slowly, so as not to lump. Serve with milk and sugar.

WHATCHAMA COLUMN.

Powders.
Prominent among the powders of the earth just now of course is gunpowder.
But let us not forget that the face, bug and sediz varieties have their triumph too. Many a cockroach fallen victim to a squirt of the bug brand from a vest pocket howitzer?

Who but has witnessed the agonies of young men as they staggered away from the battle-ground of love with the powder marks of conflict on their shoulders?

And who but knows the glory of a battle won by sediz against a raging stomach the morning after?

There is power in powder of every kind.

DAILY CARDINAL CELEBRATES 25TH BIRTHDAY IN APRIL

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., March 15.—The twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Daily Cardinal, daily newspaper owned and published by the students at the University of Wisconsin, will be celebrated during the first week in April.

An all-university convocation addressed by a noted American journalist in the men's gymnasium will be one important feature of the celebration. Victor Murdock, editor of the Michigan Eagle, Kansas, and former congressman, has been asked to address the convention.

All former editors of the Daily Cardinal will be invited to attend a banquet in the evening. It is probable that an invitation will be sent to editors of all college dailies in the middle west.

FIRE CAUSES BIG LOSS TO MILWAUKEE BUILDINGS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Milwaukee, Wis., March 15.—Fire early Wednesday wrought damage estimated at $40,000, the principal losses being sustained by the Underwood Typewriter company and the P. A. Gross Millinery company, located in a building at 386 Broadway.

A $30,000 was caused when fire destroyed four buildings on the Blue Island road near Wauwatosa.

THE HIGHFLIERS

—BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

It Becomes Increasingly Apparent That Clyde's Regeneration is Complete. "Well, Mollie, I have ordered the little baby carriage for the young man," Ed Jaynes smiled down at the pale face on the pillow.

"You do too much for me. I can never thank you." The eyelashes were wet, and there was a tremble in Mollie's voice.

"Nonsense." The big man drew a chair to the bedside and sat down. "I am trying to keep up the interest in the great debt I owe you. For this my son that was dead is alive again."

The voice was very solemn and a silence fell between them. The grandfatherly reached over and took the tiny pink fist of the sleeping baby in his hand. The little fingers suddenly spread and closed firmly over the big forefinger.

"See that now!" exclaimed the delighted grandfather. "He is shaking hands with me. What a charming little fellow?" He stroked the pink fingers with his thumb.

"Look here!" he exclaimed as Clyde entered the room and with his hand in his pocket and stood looking down on the group. "He hangs on pretty tight, I can tell you."

"He knows who is his friend. You see he is a wise little guy." Clyde had an air of solemn wonder in his face as if a huge mass of thought suddenly and himself the father of kites. "I can't realize that all this belongs to me."

"There's a large chunk of heaven to come to one man. The largest there is in the pack," was the father's answer. Again silence fell on the group.

"Mustn't spoil him. No sending him to college with his pockets lined with gold. Eh, Clyde?" He looked at his son earnestly.

"God forbid!" was the solemn answer.

After a pause Jaynes continued: "Julie is making something for you. She wants to bring it and present it as soon as you are able to receive it. I have told her to tell her where I have bulldozed the nurse and got in here every day." He chuckled audibly.

"You could not hurt me any more than Clyde could," said Mollie softly, reaching out her hand which was promptly grasped by the free hand of the visitor. The other was still being held by the baby.

"The nurse will rise up and assert herself if I stay too long." He placed Mollie's hand on the bed and patted it, then slowly untwined the clinging fingers of the baby.

"Good-bye, little chap. Granddad would like to hold your hand all day, but he has something else to do. Now go to sleep, Mollie. Sleep is the best medicine I know of." When outside of the room he beckoned Clyde to follow.

"Your mother is coming down today to see the baby. Do not let her go in to see Mollie. It might excite her. If she sees the baby she will be satisfied anyway. He is the most important thing to her." Clyde nodded and returned to the sick-room.

"Do you know these last months have not only given me my wife and child but my father as well. I never appreciated him; never knew how much he really was (ill)—lately." He added after a pause. "He has treated you like a queen, too."

"He has treated his father to the fatherless," whispered Mollie.

"Besides," continued Clyde, "I think having a son of my own makes me realize how a father feels and what pain a son can cause. I have been thinking all the morning of the anguish I caused my dear mother. Tears were rolling down Mollie's cheeks.

"There's a large, this will never do. You will not get well if I let you get to crying." Clyde bestirred himself to cheer the patient. Fortunately the baby cried and the nurse came in to attend to his wants and all else was forgotten for the time.

Household Hints

TWO SUBSTANTIAL DISHES.
Vegetable Potpie—One cup tomatoes, one cup diced potatoes, half cup diced carrots, one cup canned corn, one-third cup celery, two tablespoons butter, one and one-half cups hot water. Mix all well, put in stewpan, cook slowly half hour. Thicken with tablespoon butter and one-third cup flour. Boil up once again, pour into baking dish, cover with a crust dough. Cut a slit in middle of dough, bake half hour. Lay a paper over top and let brown too fast.

English Beef Suet Pudding—Two and one-half cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, one cup chopped beef, one cup flour, one cup same as baking powder biscuits. Place steak on dough and roll, pinching both ends together. Flour pudding cloth and keep pudding dry. Fasten cloth at both ends and drop into boiling water, placing plate on bottom of kettle to keep pudding from sticking. Gravy for Pudding: One-half pound beef in sauce, one-half pound butter, one-half cup water. Put over pudding very hot. Serves six people. Appetizing and hearty dish.

TUNAFISH SALAD.

To one-half pound of canned tunafish add one apple chopped fine, two pickles, cut into small pieces, one cupful chopped celery. Moistened with mayonnaise dressing and serve on lettuce with either French or mayonnaise dressing.

THE TABLE.

Halibut Fillets—Two pounds halibut steak. Free from skin and bone and cut in narrow strips. Season with salt, pepper and lemon juice. Cut two onions in slices and lay on the strips, then set away for half an hour. At the end of this time have ready one-third cup melted butter. Dip the fish in this, roll, skewer into fillets shape and dredge with flour. Arrange in buttered casserole or baking dish and bake twenty minutes in moderate oven. Serve with white sauce and two hard-boiled eggs sliced for a garnish. This recipe serves six people.

Baked Ham and Potato in Milk—Cut ham in a thick slice, put in skillet and cover with milk. Bake until un-sliced potatoes (leave whole) and add to the ham. Cover and bake in moderate oven two hours.

Lamb Stew—Get piece of neck of lamb, cut in small pieces and put on to cook in water, add salt and pepper, and onion if liked. When meat is half done add barley and cook until tender.

Rice and Potatoes—Now that potatoes are so cheap, they are when you want mashed potatoes try cooking a half cup of rice until half done, then add three medium-sized potatoes (peeled) and boil until done. Drain very dry and season as for mashed potatoes.

Salad Dressing—Boil together one cup vinegar, two tablespoons sugar. Beat two egg yolks, stir in contents of small can condensed milk, add one-fourth teaspoon salt, and hot vinegar, stir until thick. This will make one pint.

Banana Pudding—Grease pudding dish, put in layer of bread crumbs that have been soaked in a pint of water to which has been added juice of one orange and half cup sugar. Sprinkle these crumbs with bits of butter, put over thick layer of sliced bananas; sprinkle with sugar. Now add more crumbs and more bananas; proceed in this manner until dish is full. Sprinkle top of pudding with bits of butter. Bake covered, for half hour; uncover and bake ten minutes longer. Serve with sugar and cream.

Roast Duck and Baked Apples—Joint the duck, lay in roasting pan, add salt, pepper, three or four dried prunes and three cups water. Pour one-fourth pound of melted butter over top. Cover roast and roast for two to three hours, allowing water to cook away, therefore brewing the duck. Bake six apples and arrange around duck (on a large platter) alternately with mounds of cranberry jelly. Here and there place a sprig of crisp celery.

CHAPTER XV.

An Awakening.

Time was when Phil Strange boasted that he and his wife had played every fairground and seaside amusement park from Coney Island to Galveston. In his battered wardrobe trunks were parts of old costumes, scrapbooks of clippings, and a goodly collection of lithographs, some advertising the supernatural powers of "Professor Magi, Sovereign of the Unseen World," and others the accomplishments of "Mlle. Le Garde, Renowned Serpent Enchantress." In these gaudy portraits of "Magi the Mystic" no one would have recognized Phil Strange. And even more difficult would it have been to trace a resemblance between Mrs. Strange and the blond, bushy-headed "Mlle. Le Garde" of the posters. Nevertheless, the likenesses at one time had been considered not too flattering, and Phil resented them as evidences of imperishable distinction.

But the Stranges had tired of public life. For a long time the wife had confessed to a lack of interest in her vocation which amounted almost to a repugnance. Snake-charming, she had discovered, was far from an ideal profession for a woman of refinement. It possessed unpleasant features, and even such euphemistic titles as "Serpent Enchantress" and "Reptilian Mesmerist" failed to rob the calling of a certain odium, a suggestion of vulgarity in the minds of the more discriminating. This had become so distressing to Mrs. Strange's finer sensibilities that she had voiced a yearning to forsake the platform and ply for something more congenial, and finally she had prevailed upon Phil to make a change.

The step had not been taken without misgivings, but a benign Providence had watched over the pair. Mrs. Strange was a natural seamstress, and luck had directed her and Phil to a community which was not only in need of a good dressmaker but peculiarly ripe for the talents of a soothsayer. Phil, too, had intended to embrace a new profession; but he had soon discovered that Jonesville offered better financial returns to a man of his accepted gifts than did the choicest of seaside concessions, and therefore he had resumed his old calling under a slightly different guise. Before long he acknowledged himself well pleased with the new environment, for his wife was far happier in draping dress goods upon the figures of her customers than hanging python folds about her own, and he found his own fame growing with every day. His mediumistic gifts came into general demand. The country-people journeyed miles to consult him, and Blaze Jones' statement that they confided in the fortune-teller as they would have confided in a priest was scarcely an exaggeration. Phil did indeed become the repository for confessions of many sorts.

Contrary to Blaze's belief, however, Strange was no Prince of Darkness, pleasant responsibility. Chancing to meet Dave Law one day, he determined to relieve himself of at least one troublesome burden.

"Over Her Head Floats a Skeleton—"

But Dave was not easily approachable. He met the man's allusions to the occult with contemptuous amusement, nor would he consent to a private "reading." Strange grew almost desperate enough to speak the ungarlish truth.

"You'd better pay a little attention to me," he cried; "I've got a message to you from the 'Unseen World.'"

"Chances 'collect,' I reckon," the Ranger grinned.

Strange waved aside the suggestion. "It came unbidden, and I pass it on for what it's worth." As Dave turned away, he added, lustily, "It's about a skeleton in the chapparal, and a red-haired woman."

Dave stopped; he eyed the speaker curiously. "Go on," said he.

But a public street, Strange explained, was no place for psychic discussions. Dave agreed. When they were alone in the fortune-telling "parlor," he sat back while the medium closed his eyes and prepared to explore the invisible. After a brief delay Phil began:

"I see a great many things—that woman I told you about, and three men. One of 'em is you, the other two is Mexicans. You're at a water hole in the mesquite. Now there's a shooting scrape; I see the body of a dead man. And now the scene changes. Everything dissolves. I'm in a mansion; and the red-haired woman comes toward me. Over her head floats a skeleton—"

Dave broke in crisply. "All right! Let's get down to cases. What's on your mind, Strange?"

The psychic simulated a shudder—a painful contortion, such as anyone might suffer if rudely jerked out of the spirit world.

"Eh? What was I—? There! You've broke the connection," he declared. "Did I tell you anything?"

"No. But evidently you can."

"I'm sorry. They never come back."

"Rot!"

Phil was hurt, indignant. With some stiffness he explained the danger of interrupting a seance of this sort, but Law remained obdurate.

"You can put over that second-sight stuff with the greasers," he declared, sharply; "but not with me. So, Jose Sanchez has been to see you and you want to warn me. Is that it?"

together since you shot Pandlo, and they're framing something."

"What, for instance?"

The fortune-teller hesitated. "I only wish I knew," he said slowly. "It looks to be like a killing."

Dave nodded. "Probably is. Jose would like to get me, and of course the girl—"

"Oh, they don't aim to get you. You ain't the one they're after."

"No? Who, then?"

"I don't know nothing definite. In this business, you understand, a fellow has to put two and two together. All the same, I'm sure Jose ain't carrying no epitaph for you. From what I've dug out of Rosa, he's acting for a third party—somebody who's got a lot of coin—but who he is I don't know. Anyhow, he's cooking trouble for the Austins, and I want to stand from under."

Now that the speaker had dropped all pretense, he answered Dave's questions without evasion and told what he knew. It was not much, to Dave's way of thinking, but it was enough to give cause for thought, and when the men finally parted it was with the understanding that Strange would promptly communicate any further intelligence on this subject that came his way.

On the following day Dave's duties called him to Brownsville, where court was in session. He had planned to leave by the morning train; but as he continued to meditate over Strange's words, he decided that, before going, he ought to advise Alaire of the fellow's suspicions in order that she might discharge Jose Sanchez and in other ways protect herself against his possible spite. Since the matter was one that could not well be talked over by telephone, Dave determined to go in person to Las Palmas that evening. Truth to say, he was hungry to see Alaire. By this time he had almost ceased to combat the feeling she aroused in him, and it was in obedience to an impulse far stronger than friendly anxiety that he hired a machine and, shortly after dark, took the river road.

The Fates are malicious jades. They delight in playing ill-natured pranks upon us. Not content with spinning and measuring and cutting the threads of our lives to suit themselves, they must also tangle the skein, causing us to cut capers to satisfy their whims.

At no time since meeting Alaire had Dave Law been more certain of his moral strength than on this evening; at no time had his grip upon himself seemed firmer. Nor had Alaire the least reason to doubt her self-control. Dave, to be sure, had appealed to her fancy and her interest; in fact, he so dominated her thoughts that the imaginary creature whom she called her dream-husband had gradually taken on his physical likeness. But the idea that she was in any way enamored of him had never entered his mind. In such wise do the Fates amuse themselves.

Alaire had gone to her favorite after-dinner refuge, a nook on one of the side galleries, where there was a wide, swinging wicker couch; and there, in a restful obscurity fragrant with flowers, she had prepared to spend the evening with her dreams.

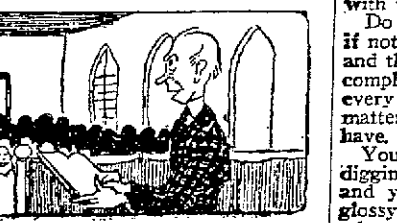

She did not hear Dave's automobile arrive. Her first intimation of his presence came with the sound of his heel upon the porch. When he appeared, it was almost like the materialization of her uppermost thought—quite as if a figure from her fancy had stepped forth full-clad.

She rose and met him, smiling. "How do you know I wanted to see you?" she inquired.

Dinner Stories

In a church in Ohio the minister gave out the hymn, "I Love to Steal Away," etc. The regular leader of the choir being absent, the duty devolved upon a young fellow of a timid nature. He commenced, "I love to steal," and then broke down. Raised his voice a little higher, he then sang, "I love to steal." At length, after a desperate cough, he made a final demonstration, and roared out, "I love to steal!"

Exposure and Wet Feet
go hand in hand with the cold germ.

They're a couple of cold spreaders. When they get you, it's snuffle, sneeze, sore, raw throat, tight chest and you feel all stuffed up—you know. Get busy! Don't wait till you get flat on your back and lose several days from your work, it's expensive and dangerous.

Go right into the first drug store you come across and ask the man behind the counter for a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for coughs and colds. He'll know; chances are he has sold it ever since the day he opened up.

Dr. King's New Discovery has been recommended and sold by druggists for nearly half a century—that's some record!

But the satisfaction it gives is what makes it so popular and you'll like it too. Dr. King's New Discovery eases your cough, soothes your tired throat and bronchial tubes, checks the cold and makes you feel like yourself again. Try it to-day.

The effort was too much. Every one but the person was laughing. He rose, and with the utmost gravity, said: "Seeing our brother's propensities, let us pray."

In the bureau of the census at Washington acts against the law are recorded under a few general heads, such as murder, burglary, etc. An officer of the bureau tells of a woman clerk who was puzzled by an entry she encountered in one of her slips. The crime as set down was "Running a blind tiger." After due reflection the woman placed it under the head "Cruelty to Animals."

"Now, Pat," said a magistrate to an old offender, "what brought you here again?" "Two policemen, sor," was the laconic reply. "Drunk, I suppose?" queried the magistrate sternly. "Yes, sor," said Pat; "both of them."

They were at the theatre, and the young lady was immensely taken with the leading man. "Watch," she said, "with what precision he steps across the stage. Every stride is of exactly the same length."

Her escort was just a little jealous. "Yes," he said cruelly, "I imagine that habit was acquired from watching the railroad ties."

Amazing Power of Bon-Opto To Make Weak Eyes Strong
Doctor Says It Strengthens Eyesight 50 per cent in One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home
Victims of eye strain and other eye weaknesses and those who wear glasses, will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope and help for them. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored by this remarkable prescription and many who once wore glasses say they have thrown them away. One man says, after using it: "I was almost blind. Could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without my glasses, and my eyes do not hurt any more. At night they would pain dreadfully. Now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can read even fine print without glasses. Another who used it says: 'I was bothered with eye strain caused by overworked, tired eyes, which induced fierce headaches. I have worn glasses for several years, both for distance and work, and without them I could not read my own name on an envelope or the type writing on the machine before me. I can do both now and have discarded my long distance glasses altogether. I can now see the future leaves on the trees across the street now, which for several years have looked like a dim green blur to me. I cannot express my joy at what it has done for me.'"

It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them as a result of using People's Drug Co., 21 E. Milwaukee.

Everyday Wisdom

By DON HEROLD

"CLOSE-UP OF A HAIRPIN LYING IN THE STREET"

A HAIRPIN.

Only a hairpin, lying in the street! Only a wire hairpin. Or perhaps a rubber one. Or perhaps neither. Perhaps some cheap imitation of wire or rubber. And perhaps not lying in the street at all, but on the sidewalk, or on the front porch, or on the back porch or in the bathroom, or on the davenport. But, be that as it may, only a hairpin!

What tender thoughts it awakens! Perhaps the memory of some olden love. Perhaps. Who knows? Perhaps the memory of someone far away, fifty or one hundred yards away. Or perhaps fifty thousands miles away. China, Australia, Egypt, Africa, the Philippine Islands, Alaska, Argentina, or any one of several dozen countries one might mention.

Only a hairpin!

Soft music, lights, a woman's soft footsteps, the rustle of an expensive skirt, the glitter of diamonds, golden hair, pink cheeks, the clatter of wine glasses in the distance, about two miles away, the twitter of a fountain, palms, oaks, in fact foliage, for it is a conservatory, or the vicinity of a conservatory, a giggle.

Only a hairpin!

Only a hairpin lying here or there—somewhere!

But it is a woman's hairpin.

Security a first mortgage on a highly improved stock farm of 1883 acres, situated on St. Paul, Minnesota. Value $109,000.00. It has buildings worth $35,000.00 which includes two large barns, five silos and large feeding sheds. Owners raise their own feed and fatten 750 steers and 400 hogs annually right at the gates of the stock farm in the Northwest. This is farm mortgage security combined with the convenience of a bond, and comes within the requirements of the Wisconsin law on investment of trust funds. Gold-Stock Loan & Credit Co., W. O. PTOMAIN POISONING IS UNDER RESEARCH

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
New York, March 15.—It is announced here by the National Research Council that an extensive investigation is to be undertaken to determine to what extent, if any, the danger of poisoning is involved in the use of canned goods. The National Research Council, representing practically all producers of canned foodstuffs in this country, is to bear the entire expense of the investigation, which will be conducted entirely independent of the association except for the matter of the financing of the work. A sum of over $100,000 will be appropriated by the National Research Council, should the work require so large an expenditure.

The proposal to make such an investigation was brought forward by Dr. George E. Hale, director of the Mount Wilson Solar Observatory and chairman of the National Research Council, who believed there was widespread interest in such an important subject as the danger of poisoning from the use of canned goods. Approaching the National Research Council, Dr. Hale found that considerable interest in such an investigation made, firm as it was in the belief that canning methods as generally used in this country thoroughly protect the public from the danger of poisoning. Many cases of illness that have been attributed to poisoning from eating canned goods are believed by the canners to have resulted from entirely different causes or from disregard of the ordinary precautions, such as allowing goods to stand in a can after being once opened.

The Canners Association itself has for years maintained its own laboratory in Washington, adequate to conduct its own investigations, but has, nevertheless, thought it wise to put its case into the hands of an independent research board, for although the subject is one that has been investigated to some extent before, there has as yet been no complete survey of the problem. With a view to supplying this deficiency, the National Research Council has appointed a committee to supervise the inquiry, which will be undertaken by the Harvard Medical School and its department of Preventive Medicine and Hygiene. The work has been entrusted to Dr. M. J. Rosenau of Harvard, who is one of the most eminent pharmacological chemists in the country. The results of the research will be published through regular scientific channels from time to time, but it is expected that it may be a matter of three years or more before the ground is completely covered.

MUNICIPAL FUEL PROJECT A SUCCESS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Wausau, March 15.—Wausau's municipal wood yard is a success, it was said today. Wood has been sold to consumers at cost and the schools have been supplied from shipments received by the city, including freight and drayage, the wood cost the city about $6.40 a cord. Birchwood was sold to the city for $5.90 a cord, and consumers purchased it at the cost price.

A co-operative movement for the purchase of coal by consumers in carload lots has been started. Two owners and two tenants of business buildings recently ordered a car which they bought at $7 a ton, including freight and drayage.

GOVERNMENT HANDLES FOOD IN PETROGRAD

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
London, March 15.—The management of all food supplies in the Petrograd district is to be placed in the hands of municipal authorities. This decision was reached, Reuter's correspondent telegraphs, at an extraordinary conference held yesterday to deal with the food problem at the capital, which is said to be urgent. The Duma will be asked to vote the necessary extension of power to enable the municipality to deal with the matter during the war.
During the discussion it was stated there were reserves of rye and wheat flour in Petrograd, and that sufficient fresh supplies were arriving.

RACINE ELKS PREPARE FOR 1918 BOWLING MEET.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Racine, March 14.—Preparations are already under way here to entertain the 1918 bowling tournament of the Elks to be held here early next year. The 1917 meet has just been finished at Sheboygan.

AMERICAN AVIATOR WINS DECORATION

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Paris, March 15.—The American aviator, Sergeant Major Raoul Lufbery, has been decorated with the cross of the Legion of Honor. The announcement gives the following reason:
"Enlisted under the French flag for duration of the war, he has given proof as aviator of remarkable boldness and has brought down up to December 27, 1916, six enemy machines, has already been twice mentioned in army orders and decorated with the military medal."
The Cross of the Legion of Honor is only conferred on men in the ranks for exceptionally distinguished service.

Sergeant Lufbery spent his early years in New Haven, Conn. His parents died when he was very young, and he was adopted by a family at Bourges, France. At thirteen he ran away and wandered all over the world, turning his hand to many trades. In 1914 he met the aviator, Marc Pourpe, who trained him as his assistant.
Lufbery discovered for the first time that he was an American when he attempted to enlist with Pourpe at the outbreak of the war and was rejected on account of his nationality. He was finally permitted to go to the front as Pourpe's mechanic. The aviator was killed shortly afterward and Lufbery swore to avenge him. He implored the French authorities for permission to be trained as a pilot, and his request was finally granted. His first three German machines were brought down within ten days. Since the date mentioned in the Legion of Honor certificate, Sergeant Lufbery has destroyed a seventh German machine.

EX-CONVICT PROBLEM GREAT FOR GERMANY

Berlin, March 15.—What to do with the ex-convicts who, when sentenced, lost their rights to citizenship and therefore may not belong to the army and fight for the fatherland, is a problem that is occupying public attention to an increasing degree.

It is estimated that there are in the empire at least 100,000 able-bodied men of military age, now at liberty after having served prison sentences, whose work for the government in the aggregate would be of tremendous value if a way could be found to utilize them.

Yet they cannot be sent to the front in regiments composed of men who have never been guilty of criminal acts, because the soldiers would not tolerate their presence. Nor is it feasible to form special companies, as has occasionally been suggested, for particularly hazardous duty. Such duty is regarded by the average soldier as a special honor which he would be loath to surrender to men branded by imprisonment. Nor is it felt that it would be safe to entrust important posts to men in whom implicit confidence cannot be placed.
The latest and apparently most welcome suggestion is that the ex-convicts, and even convicts now serving terms, should be formed into special working bodies, and put at some kind of labor for the military authorities, whether at the front or at home.

BRAVE SUBSEA PERILS IN HERRING FISHING

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Paris, March 15.—The herring fishermen are counted high up among the war heroes by the housewives of Paris. Braving submarine menaces in the most dangerous zone, they have caught enough herring this season to drive the smoked variety down from three and one-half cents to two cents a pound; it enjoys the distinction of being the only provision that has gone back to normal prices.

The mysterious migration of the herring brings it in immense shoals from the North Sea into the English Channel, and along the coasts of Normandy at the beginning of October each year to disappear in February somewhere off the mouth of the Seine. In the meantime their feeding ground is the same as that of the German submarine.

Precautions were taken to protect the fishing fleet this year and its work was unhindered and prolific. Only once, at the beginning of the season, did a submarine emerge in the midst of the fleet. It found it prudent to plunge again without attacking.
The fleet was ordered to keep out of the North Sea this year, which shortened the season three months out of a total of seven, yet the catch is—estimated at 30,000 tons as against 45,000 tons in a normal year.
The catch was so heavy as to damage the nets frequently and in some instances they were carried away. One sloop, in two tides landed $12,000 worth of herring at Boulogne.
The fleet of thirty big Boulogne "luggers" that have been engaged in the fishery will, at the end of the season, be used for coasting trade, transporting coal and grain.

MEXICO PUTTING BAN ON GAMBLING DEVICES

Mexico City, March 15.—Games of chance and skill have been well banished from the cafes of Mexico City which are strictly prohibited. Among the Latin races, when they played almost universally in the cafes here, has been prohibited by the police. Dice also have been confiscated.

Practically the only game which remains has no other name than "punto" in the paper. It is a strategy game, played "tit tat toe, three in a row." The cafes and casinos of Mexico City are closed at 10 p.m. and the main closed until 5:30 p.m. when the doors reopen until 11 p.m. for the night.

WIRE COMMUNICATION IN MILWAUKEE IS LAMAGED

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Milwaukee, Wis., March 15.—A storm of Tuesday night and Wednesday morning demolished telegraph and telephone wires in such a manner that service was crippled in many directions out of Milwaukee all day Wednesday. Large crews of linemen have been dispatched to various points to repair broken wires. Communication on Wednesday was made possible in some instances only in long round about directions.

OUR 2nd ANNIVERSARY SALE

THE GOLDEN EAGLE

LEVY'S

TWO DAYS
FRIDAY, MARCH 16th
SATURDAY, MARCH 17

TWO DAYS
FRIDAY, MARCH 16th
SATURDAY, MARCH 17

These two Days will be memorable ones for it will be just two years ago the 17th of this month that we opened up our Dry Goods and Womens Ready-to-Wear Departments. The pleasure that we have had in serving you has made the time so short that we can hardly realize the fact that it was two long years.

In honor of the occasion we are going to offer you something in the way of Value Giving that is a little out of the ordinary at this season of the year. We know of no better way of showing our appreciation to the people of this community and the surrounding towns and country for the liberal patronage that you have given us during this period, which has made this store One Grand Success.

WE WANT TO THANK YOU VERY KINDLY FOR WHAT YOU HAVE DONE FOR US, AS WE CAN ONLY ATTRIBUTE OUR SUCCESS TO YOU. IT IS CERTAINLY GRATIFYING TO US, AS IT PROVES CONCLUSIVELY THAT YOU TRULY NEEDED A STORE OF THIS CHARACTER IN YOUR CITY AND THAT YOU APPRECIATE OUR EFFORTS IN TRYING TO MAKE THIS THE LEADING AND POPULAR PRICE STORE OF SOUTHERN WISCONSIN.

WHILE THIS STORE IS YET A BABY ONLY TWO YEARS OLD, WE BELIEVE THAT YOU APPRECIATE THE FACT THAT IT IS (SOME BABY). RAILROAD BROTHERHOODS CALL A GENERAL STRIKE

CALL OUT MEN FOR SIX P. M. SATURDAY

Washington, March 15.—President Wilson was informed of the proposed strike of the railroad employees late this afternoon and immediately took steps to avert it if possible.

It is understood he made a personal appeal to all brotherhoods and their members not to take this action at the present time when the nation faces a national crisis when every facility for transportation is needed.

Whether this appeal is successful or not the president will do his utmost to avert the strike and extraordinary steps will be taken in his behalf.

New York, March 15.—Chairman Lee of the Brotherhood of Trainmen announced this afternoon at five fifteen that there would be no further conferences with the railroad officials and that a general strike would be called for six o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Later it was announced this strike would begin at six p. m. Central time and that the first roads to be affected would be the New York Central, the Nickel Plate, the B. and O. and the eighteen roads that have terminal facilities in Chicago.

The second section to be called out would go into action Sunday afternoon and would include the Northwestern system and other western and southwestern roads. This will be followed by orders for all groups as ordered by the general committee of the Brotherhood.

All local and general chairmen of both the Northwestern and the St. Paul roads have been called to meet with their officials in Chicago tomorrow. This order was received in Janesville this evening following the declaration of a general strike to become effective on Saturday at six o'clock. Local men did not know tonight what the nature of the discussion would be other than means to meet the strike crisis would be considered with the men.

An order from the New York Central lines, which includes the Big Four Railroad from Peoria east, today orders that all live stock and perishable freight must be at its destination on their lines by Saturday noon. Similar orders from other roads have not been received by the officials here.

It is understood in local railroad circles that a general order has been issued to all railroads in this section and farther west not to accept any perishable freight after tonight. As yet this report has not been authenticated but it is believed that the eastern roads are taking steps of such drastic nature to guard against the destruction of freight. Railroad men believe that the orders as well as the strike itself will work westward from the eastern coast, and the roads throughout the east are first refusing perishable goods.

No orders have been received in Janesville from the Northwestern road or the St. Paul regarding freight for destinations on their own lines.

An embargo for some time has been in force at Roundout, the big switching yards of the Milwaukee roads outside of Chicago where freight from the north, west and south is collected previous to starting on its way east to destination.

No Strike Orders in Janesville.

According to a prominent railroad man in Janesville, no orders of any kind for a strike have been received by the local Brotherhood leaders. Before a strike can be called on roads of the western system a poll must be taken of all members. No such poll has been taken. Orders for a poll or for a strike are received in code and through two separate channels. No orders have been delivered to the local Brotherhoods.

New York, March 15.—With no announcement as to whether any agreement has been reached, the joint conference today between the chiefs of the four railroad brotherhoods and railroad managers to consider a settlement of the eight hour controversy, adjourned after an hour's session, until four o'clock this afternoon.

Present Ultimatum.

The four chiefs of railroad brotherhoods during an hour's joint conference today presented to the national conference committee of railroad managers, their ultimatum. It was understood, after an hour's session, that the railroad managers were granting of an eight hour day with no overtime pay, and that the railroad managers were willing to consider a settlement of the eight hour controversy, adjourned after an hour's session, until four o'clock this afternoon.

The railroad managers entered conference today with the declaration they would make no bargain until the supreme court had ruled on the constitutionality of the Adamson law.

Leaders In Rail Conference Who Fail To Avert Strike

These men are the leading figures in the big rail meeting now in progress in New York city. Warren S. Stone is at the head of the Locomotive Engineers; W. G. Lee is grand chief of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen; W. S. Carter is president of the Locomotive Fireman and Enginemen; Elisha Lee, assistant general manager of the Pennsylvania railroad, is spokesman for the railway managers.

GERMANY TO REORGANIZE AFTER WAR

GREATER DEMOCRACY FOR EMPIRE AT CLOSE OF HOSTILITIES, PREDICTED BY HOLLWEG.

MORE POWER TO PEOPLE

Resolution Introduced in Upper House Calls For New Basis of Representation in the Bundesrath.

London, March 15.—A political reorganization of the German empire after the war, involving a great share by the people in the conduct of imperial affairs, was predicted by Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg in a speech before the Prussian diet, according to a Berlin dispatch by Reuters by way of Amsterdam.

The chancellor opened his address protesting against criticism leveled at the Reichstag by the upper house of the diet. Admitting that every parliament in Germany is entitled to discuss the imperial policy, he reiterated previous assurances that the war must lead to political reorganization, and the government would, after the close of hostilities, propose a reform of the Prussian franchise.

The following motion has been introduced in the Prussian lower house by Herr Friedberg, leader of the national liberal party:

"The house resolves to request the royal state government to present a bill by which membership in the house of lords will be changed in a way that while retaining the royal privilege of appointment, but abolishing all privilege of families and dignities which now exist in relation to membership in the house of lords, representation by means of election and corresponding to their importance, be granted to all large municipalities and to all professions of importance for economic life and civilization of our people."

The house is expected to discuss the motion shortly.

Means Political Reorganization.

The adoption of a measure such as that proposed by Herr Friedberg would be an important step in political reorganization, discussed so widely in Germany of late. The house of lords is composed of princes of royal families, chiefs of mediocrity princely houses, heads of territorial nobilities, life peers chosen by the kings, titled noblemen elected in certain provinces by land owners, representatives of universities, burgomasters of towns with more than 50,000 inhabitants, and members nominated by the king for life or for a restricted period.

Janesville Shippers Forseeing Big Tieup Hold Goods In Plants

Janesville shippers and practically all local manufacturing plants for the past three days have been apprehensive of an impending general tieup of the railroads by a strike of the railway men and as the result have refused entirely to ship either entire or part carload lots.

The shippers as early as Tuesday began holding off. Wednesday it became more general and today all shipping had practically stopped. Rather than run the risk of having their goods tied up before reaching their destination they are being held here.

HOLD CONSECRATION OF CATHOLIC BISHOP

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS] Baltimore, March 15.—Distinguished men of the diplomatic corps, justices of the supreme court, congressmen and army and navy officers attended the consecration here of Monsignor W. T. Russell, for the last nine years rector of St. Patrick's church, Washington, as Bishop of Charleston, S. C. The brilliant and impressive ceremony was performed in the cathedral by Cardinal Gibbons as consecrator, assisted by Bishop J. J. Monaghan of Wilmington, Delaware, and Owen B. Corrigan of Baltimore.

BONE DRY LAW BIG LOSS TO LA CROSSE

La Crosse, March 15.—The anti-liquor legislation enacted by congress recently will mean loss of at least one hundred thousand dollars in revenue to La Crosse dealers, is the opinion of John A. Elliott, of the firm of Elliott & Loeffler, pioneer wholesale liquor dealers here. Iowa, Minnesota and Dakota have been supplied through local houses for several years. It is anticipated here several dry measures in the senate may mean the end of several smaller firms here.

SPY WILL TESTIFY IN NEW YORK TRIAL

New York, March 15.—George Vaux Bacon, who was held a prisoner in the Tower of London as a German spy will be the government's chief witness against Albert O. Sander and Charles N. Wummenberg, when they are tried probably next week for conspiring to send spies from this country to Great Britain to obtain military information for Germany. Bacon is charged as a spy who was sent to England for this purpose. By permission of British government he was brought back to New York yesterday on the steamship Cedric.

U-BOAT WAR TO CONTINUE SAYS GERARD

FORMER AMBASSADOR INFORMS STATE DEPARTMENT GERMAN WILL NOT MODIFY HER PLANS.

NEUTRAL PORTS OPEN

Right of American Armed Ships to Use Neutral Harbors Subject of Negotiations by U. S. Ambassadors.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS] Washington, March 15.—Information which Ambassador Gerard has laid before the state department refutes various statements that Germany might be contemplating altering her campaign in the United States. From the evidence Mr. Gerard brought and that gathered from other sources, President Wilson and state department officials expect Germany is fully determined to continue submarine warfare in violation of international law in the face of the fact such policy will probably lead to war with the United States. President Wilson will continue with his plan for putting the United States in armed neutrality.

Ports Open to Armed Ships. Copenhagen, March 15.—The right of American armed merchantmen to enter neutral ports of Europe is the subject of negotiations now being carried on in Copenhagen by representatives of the United States. Dr. Maurice Egan, American minister to Denmark, like his colleagues at other courts, took up the subject a number of days ago, but as yet has received no reply from the Danish government.

It is understood that among the European neutrals, Sweden and Norway have no objection to the use of their ports by American merchantmen. Holland, which has barred belligerent armed merchantmen from its harbors, is expected to extend the same rule to armed American vessels.

Armed British Ship Sunk. Boston, March 15.—Agents of the Warren line announced today they had received indirect word that the British steamer Sagamore, which sailed from Boston February 21 for Liverpool had been sunk by a submarine. The Sagamore was in command of Captain F. Cumming and had a crew of fifty. There were no Americans aboard. She carried general cargo including munitions for the British government and was armed astern with a 4.7 inch gun. Vessel and cargo was valued at $1,500,000.

It was stated at the British consulate later today that two Americans had signed as firemen in the Sagamore's crew the day before the vessel's departure. They were Michael Olloway and John Henry, both of Boston. While having no positive information on this point, it was assumed by officers of the Wallin line the men were aboard.

RUSSIA TO SUE FOR A SEPARATE PEACE?

London, March 15.—With Emperor Nicholas abdicated Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovitch has assumed the regency. This is taken to mean that the present Royal Family will continue in power and the revolution has been aimed directly at the Emperors conduct of the war.

London, March 15.—Official word has been received from Petrograd that Emperor Nicholas has abdicated his throne.

This means that Duma is in supreme control and the Committee of Safety appointed this afternoon is in charge of the government. Emperor Nicholas was not at the Royal Palace when it was stormed by the revolutionists but at the front and it is thought he probably hastened back to Petrograd and made his formal resignation in that city.

Just what this will mean is not understood in diplomatic circles. The fact that Sturmer, who was considered a friend of Germany and the Central Powers, has been imprisoned, is taken in some circles to be that the Russian forces will continue the war.

Rumors from Berlin tonight are to the effect the revolution will mean a separate peace with Russia and permit the Teutonic forces now engaged on that front to be transferred to other activities.

Nicholas II. was born in 1868, succeeded his father, Alexander III. in 1894. In 1896 he was crowned at Moscow, and the same year visited Berlin, Balmoral and Chalon. He announced his intention of carrying out the absolutist policy of his father and soon after his accession passed a sentence of arrest and exile on those active in provincial assemblies asking for guarantees of life and liberty.

He ruled in accordance with the traditional absolutist policy of Russia down to the end of 1905, when the National will forced from him a constitution and a manifesto declaring freedom of the press—which, however, has never been complete. The Czar's belief in autocracy has never varied.

While the strength of the Revolutionary and reform parties has from time to time forced from him some concessions, his reign has been marred by the massacre of defenseless petitioners on the streets of Petrograd, by the persecution of the Jews, and by popular discontent, assassinations of officials, and an attempt on the Czar's life.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS] London, March 15.—Dispatches from Petrograd announce that the Duma, backed by the army, is in control of the government. The revolutionists have imprisoned former Premier Strumer and Minister of the Interior Prototko, and a committee of safety is in charge of affairs.

The revolution centered at Petrograd and Moscow and the garrisons of both cities joined with the rebels and took control of affairs.

BULLETIN. Petrograd, March 15.—After three days of fighting the revolutionary successes have been accepted here.

The casualties are not known, but it is thought that they will not exceed five hundred. It is reported that Prototopoff, decided not to accept the Imperial ukase, but to continue its meetings. The Duma immediately instituted an executive committee, presided over by the president of the Duma. That committee declared itself to be a provisional government and issued the following appeal:

"Considering difficulties in regard to domestic tranquility which are due to the policy of the former government, the executive committee of the Duma feels compelled to make public order in this country. Fully conscious of the responsibility arising from this decision, the committee expresses the certainty that the population and the army will lend their assistance for the difficult task of creating a new government, which will respect the wishes of the people and enjoy their confidence."

Army Aide Revolutionists. The executive committee rested itself upon the population of the capital, which was in full revolution and minister of the interior, was among the killed. Emperor Nicholas has been warned that the status of his dynasty will follow the lead of the lead of the revolutionists.

The royal palace was besieged by the revolutionary troops. Emperor Nicholas is at the front. Berlin, wireless to Sayville, March 15.—There has been a successful revolution in Russia according to the Overseas News Agency, the official German news bureau.

The following statement was given out today by the news agency: "The following report was issued in Petrograd on March 14, about a successful Russian revolution: "The revolution in Petrograd, incited by complete disorganization of transport services, and of alimentary had been irritated for a long time against the government and had become restless. The population held the government responsible for all its suffering. The government, expecting trouble, took measures on a large scale in order to maintain order, and among other things, ordered dissolution of counsel of empire and Duma. "The Duma, however, on March 11, upon the army, completely united with the revolutionists. They arrested all the ministers and sent them to jail. The Duma declared that the ministerial cabinet no longer existed."

Today, the third day of the revolution, is completely in the hands of the executive committee of the Duma and of the troops which garrisoned Petrograd and number more than 60,000, which troops support the revolution. Deputy Engelhardt, colonel of the federal staff, has been appointed commander of Petrograd by the committee. "Yesterday evening the committee issued proclamations to the population, to troops, railroad and banks, asking them to resume their usual activity. Deputy Bronski, was chosen by the Duma committee for the provisional management of the Petrograd Telegraphic Agency. (This probably refers to the semi-official news agency) papers. The Tidning of Sundsvall publishes a statement that a bridge over the Neva river in Petrograd has been dynamited by revolutionists."

BUSINESSMEN HEAR PROHIBITION TALKS

ABOUT FIFTY ASSEMBLED AT MYERS HOUSE FOR DISCUSSION OF PROHIBITION IN JANESVILLE.

SENATOR JAMES HERE

Shows What Effect No License Has Had on the City of Richland Center—Economic Advantages.

"You can't blame the saloonkeeper for the evils of the saloon; when you make the license legal, you make the saloonkeeper a partner in the crime," Senator James of Richland Center told about fifty men assembled last evening at the Myers Hotel for a dinner and discussion of the subject of prohibition in Janesville. "A drunkard is good for nothing," he urged, "and a drinking man is only about seventy-five percent efficient."

In 1902 there had been eight saloons in Richland Center. From these our revenue in license money amounted to $4,000 a year, and it cost us in the same time $120,000 in money spent for liquor alone in those saloons. Our courts were crowded with criminals. We had murders, burglaries, robberies, regular events. The Methodist church was dynamited, and we all received black and white letters. It was the worst town in the state. Our streets were dirty and in bad repair, our roads were well nigh impassable, and the country people avoided us.

We eliminated politics, creed and sex. We worked together for each other—that is fundamental with us—and we fought. We carried back to business in the saloons. The saloon owners retained their buildings for the next year, when they expected Richland Center to go to the polls. The next election we polled a majority of 50 votes and the next year we had a majority of 118. Every one of those buildings has been rented for other purposes for more than they earned as saloons. Property values in the city and in the surrounding country have doubled since Richland Center went dry fifteen years ago. I have made more money in my retail business in the last fifteen years than I did in the thirty-seven years when Richland Center was wet. Our trade in the city has increased fifty percent. Immediately after the city went dry some of the Bohemians and Germans in the neighboring country stopped trading there, but they came back inside of a year. They found that the city had provided hitherto equipped rooms where the farmers' wives could be comfortable when they came to town. Everything prospered. The women folks of Richland Center, they weren't afraid to send their sons there to trade, and their husbands always came back with what they went for. Instead of with no money but their own drunk.

In 1907 our bank deposits amounted to $299,000, while in 1914 they amounted to $1,885,000. In the last year alone the bank deposits of Janesville have increased by $132,000 in the bank deposits. Small towns in the region of Richland Center show similar figures; bank deposits which average $35,000, increase annually in those places where in the wet towns of the same size and same physical conditions, the deposits have been falling off about the same amount each year. If it's just money you're after, cut out the saloons.

In 1902 the assessed valuation of Richland Center was $1,463,000, and in 1914 it was $3,100,000. Our taxes are pretty high for we have put in twenty miles of cement sidewalks, five miles of concrete roads, have built a fine, high school, and a county training school, we have water and electric plants, and have erected one of the finest opera houses for the use of the whole community in the whole west. We've done all this since the town went dry. But with it all our taxes are lower than those of surrounding cities which are still wet. I can pay $1,700 taxes much more easily now than I could pay $200 when we were wet.

John Baker of the Baker Manufacturing company in Evansville, in telling of what no license has meant for that city, said that he had signed for from a credit ratings given for the city of Evansville and for Edgerton and Brodhead, which were wet at the time that 48% would have to be added to the per capita wealth of Brodhead to equal that of Evansville, and 56% of that of Edgerton.

"Though it is difficult to prove things by citing a few examples," said Mr. Baker, "it is interesting to note that Evansville has never had a murder. Janesville averages about one or two a year, I believe. Of course, some liquor is consumed in Evansville, but it is a comparatively small amount. On the other hand, three kegs and five cases of beer are shipped into the city during the winter and about twice as much in the summer.

"The cost of liquor to a city is difficult to estimate, but capital figures show a consumption in the United States of 22 gallons per capita; there are 47 saloons for every 10,000 of the population, and 10,000 gallons sold in each saloon. Each saloon estimated to do a business of $8,000 per year and with forty-five saloons here in Janesville, nearly $400,000 is spent on liquor in the city each year. If the saloons were closed this money would be spent on other business, better for the community, and the buildings now used for saloons would house this added business. The productivity of the men would increase enough to double that $400,000.

"Many businessmen feel that a dry town would drive trade away. Evansville successfully covers a large trade area, and has large fine stores there in addition to the usual number of smaller establishments.

"In the dry cities of Evansville and Stoughton the tax rate is lower than in wet Edgerton and Whitehouse.

"Albany, Slough, Oregon, Footville and Orfordville went dry only after observing the effects of no-license in Evansville and after experimenting for themselves. Prohibition has not been the most successful thing these towns would never have adopted it."

In speaking of a prohibition campaign in a New Jersey city, Father Williams said that closing the saloons one hour earlier on Saturday evening meant a loss of $100 per saloon and a consequent saving of this amount for the working men. With this closing of saloons on Saturday, the banks of that city were filled Monday mornings with laboring men's wives making deposits, where before the deposits had been saloonkeepers.

The members of the city council of Footville, who had planned on attending the dinner, were unable to be present because of the tie-up in the interurban service. They expressed their desire to speak at a similar gathering in Janesville any time they were wanted.

A number of men responded to A. B. Matheson, chairman of the meeting, with short talks showing what prohibition had done for various cities with which they were familiar. Though the meeting was intended for discussion of the question of both pro and con, there was no representative of the anti-prohibition element present to uphold that side of the matter.

Community Meeting.

The wide length of Washington street, blossomed out with dry banners on yesterday, after the meeting held at the home of Sanford Soverhill, where they were distributed. The members of the city council and the inclement weather about thirty attended the meeting. Rev. Cummings and Mrs. Ellen Copp gave an informal talk along the line of the temperance cause. Mr. Pickin of Edgerton, who is county president of the W. C. T. U. was also present and made a few remarks. Mrs. Athon gave a reading which was very interesting. The meeting was held in the hall of the city hall. Arthur played two violin selections with Miss Louise Bennett as piano accompanist, which were delightful.

These meetings which are educational in their nature, have been steadily growing in interest and enable those who attend to quote facts and intelligently discuss matters along these lines.

FILES APPEAL BOND IN CIRCUIT COURT

Attorney for Frank Williams Takes Step Necessary to Appeal Injunction Suit to Supreme Court.

Attorney H. Ryan, representing Frank Williams, proprietor of the Northwestern Hotel at South Janesville, today filed an appeal bond for his client to make possible the appeal from the temporary injunction to the state supreme court. George Williams and Harold Christensen, both of the town of Spring Valley, are sponsors for Williams' appeal. Christensen, at present also filed a bill of exceptions, setting forth in detail the reasons upon which the appeal is taken.

MASONS WILL ENJOY BANQUET AND BALL

Elaborate Plans Made for Big Social Event for Members of Masonic and Eastern Star Lodges.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the Masonic reception and ball have announced everything to be in readiness for the occasion. Some of the best talent in the middle west has been employed for the musical part of the program. An orchestra of ten pieces, including music for the dance, which will be held at Assembly Hall after the banquet and concert at the Masonic Temple.

On account of the large membership and limited facilities, it has been necessary for the committee to warn members of the lodge to be confined to Masons, the Eastern Star and their families. They would be glad to welcome others, but they say it is not possible to accommodate a larger number.

The banquet committee will begin serving about 5:30, and are anxious to have as many as possible come at that hour. A four course dinner will be served.

MERCHANTS BUSY PREPARING OPENINGS

Stores Are Veritable Beehives of Activity Getting Ready for the Grand Combined Spring Openings.

What a wealth of beautiful apparel will greet the eyes of those who are on hand at 7:30 p. m. next Wednesday to witness the unveiling of the window displays of the Janesville stores. They will be resplendent in their new dress, featuring everything that is up-to-date in fashion at that last minute before Easter.

Music will be furnished throughout the downtown district by a specially large brass band. It will be an occasion to come downtown and out-of-town folks to come to the city.

The committee extend a cordial invitation to everyone and announce the opening dates to be Tuesday, Friday and Saturday, March 22nd, 23rd and 24th, with the unveiling of the windows Wednesday evening, March 21st.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS STUDY 20 CENT LUNCHEONS

Twenty cent luncheons have been the particular study of the sophomore girls enrolled in the home economics course at the local high school during the last week or so. Under the direction of the teachers the forty or more girls in this class have divided themselves into "lunch squads," and have gained much practical experience in doing all the preparation of the meals themselves. Each squad was put in charge of a student leader, and then they planned the menu, secured the city for bargains in foodstuffs. These they concocted into luncheons, assuming themselves the position of ultimate consumers.

It is the plan of the course to give the girls training in the actual work of the home, not merely a few cooking lessons, but a thorough grounding in the economics of the home.

FILES APPEAL BOND IN CIRCUIT COURT

Attorney for Frank Williams Takes Step Necessary to Appeal Injunction Suit to Supreme Court.

Attorney H. Ryan, representing Frank Williams, proprietor of the Northwestern Hotel at South Janesville, today filed an appeal bond for his client to make possible the appeal from the temporary injunction to the state supreme court. George Williams and Harold Christensen, both of the town of Spring Valley, are sponsors for Williams' appeal. Christensen, at present also filed a bill of exceptions, setting forth in detail the reasons upon which the appeal is taken.

HOG TRADE STRONG AT SHADE ADVANCE

[By Associated Press]

Chicago, March 15.—Hog trade was strong with prices a shade higher at the opening this morning. Top quotations were order issued by J. A. Grimm for a temporary injunction to the state supreme court. George Williams and Harold Christensen, both of the town of Spring Valley, are sponsors for Williams' appeal. Christensen, at present also filed a bill of exceptions, setting forth in detail the reasons upon which the appeal is taken.

FOUR READY TO FILE NOMINATION PAPERS

Three Supervisors and a Justice of Peace Have Petitions Ready for Registration Monday.

Nomination papers of three city supervisors to the county board and a justice of the peace are ready to be filed when the stipulating petitioners on Monday morning. The supervisors are E. D. McGowan of the Third ward, Joseph Denning of the Fourth and James Morris of the Fifth ward. City Attorney Charles E. Lange, at present a justice of the peace, is a candidate again for the latter office.

No nomination papers for the offices of school commissioners as yet have been received. The school board, however, is expected to file on Monday, although it is expected that they will be in due time.

Wisconsin statutes provide nomination papers for city offices to be filed with the city clerk not more than fifteen and not less than seven days before the election. Thus the period for filing the papers this year will be between next Monday, March 19, and a week from next Tuesday, March 27. It was originally planned by the city to use the voting machines this year, but this idea had to be abandoned when it was discovered that County Clerk Howard W. Lee had already let bids for the ballots.

WHITEWATER OPENS NORMAL TOURNAMENT ON FRIDAY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Whitewater, March 14.—The first game of basketball for the championship for normal schools of this year, was played here Tuesday evening at the gymnasium, between River Falls and Whitewater. River Falls defeated Stevens Point, Monday, River Falls the northern championship. As both teams played Ripon college and by comparing the scores, the local team will be able to give the northerners a hard run. The contest calls for three games, one here and one at River Falls, and if necessary one at a neutral floor, probably Menomonie. Those from here who attended the farmers' excursion to Madison Wednesday, were: Charles W. Williams, Alvin Parish, Horace Mills, Edward H. Peterson, Henry Ridge, Almon Peterson, Fred Henderson, C. Pratt, Ralph Pratt, Geo. Gledhill, J. Kyle, John Boyd, G. A. Schmidt, Harry Cox, W. F. Roe, Geo. Crumb, and Merion R. Fish.

Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Bartlett entertained the Monday club last evening at the M. E. church. The decorations were white and green and the waiters wore white coats and caps, and consisted of the boys of Mr. Bartlett's Sunday school class. On the entrance the boys marched to the piano and sang "Tipperary."

Mrs. Charles Biefang returned home last evening after a week's visit with her sister in Milwaukee.

U. G. Smith was a Chicago visitor on Tuesday.

J. G. Taylor of Janesville spent Tuesday here.

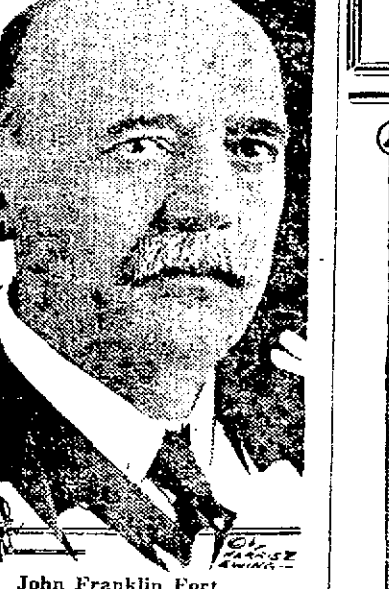

Miss Hazel Markham is home from St. Louis, Mo., where she has been with her father for several months.

Miss Anna Ludeman has returned to Chicago after spending several weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ludeman.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schoen and two children of Freeport, Ill., came yesterday for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Thorne.

Mrs. R. H. Dixon entertained a company of ladies very pleasantly on Tuesday evening.

The Receiver Hook

HERE the delicate mechanism of the telephone receiver hook and contacts is shown. This mechanism embraces more than a dozen of the 116 separate parts that go to make up a Bell telephone, and it has been developed to the highest point of mechanical efficiency. It combines strength and durability with the delicacy of instant response.

When the receiver is "banged" into the hook repeatedly, parts are loosened and adjustments destroyed; if the receiver strikes the hook a lateral blow before it is down far enough to break the contact, the person on the other end of the line, if he has not had time to hang up, will hear a sharp, cracking noise that is far from pleasant.

You can help to safeguard the service by care in replacing the receiver.

PTOMAIN POISONING IS UNDER RESEARCH

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
New York, March 15.—It is an unusual honor for the National Research Council that an exhaustive investigation is to be undertaken to determine to what extent, if any, the danger of poisoning is involved in the use of canned goods. The National Research Council, representing practically all producers of canned goods in this country, is to bear the entire expense of the investigation, which will be conducted entirely in the matter of the financing of the work. A sum of over $100,000 will be appropriated by the National Research Council, should the work require so large an expenditure.

The proposal to make such an investigation was brought forward by Dr. George E. Hale, director of the Mount Wilson Solar Observatory and chairman of the National Research Council, who believed there was widespread interest in such an important subject as the danger of poisoning from the use of canned goods. Approaching the National Research Council, Dr. Hale found that organization eager to have such an independent investigation made, firm as it was in the belief that canning methods as generally used in this country thoroughly protect the public from the danger of poisoning. Many cases of illness that have been attributed to poisoning from eating canned goods are believed by the council to have resulted from entirely different causes or from disregard of the ordinary precautions, such as allowing goods to stand in a can after being once opened.

The Canners Association itself has for years maintained its own laboratory in Washington, adequate to conduct its own investigations, but has, nevertheless, thought it wise to put its case into the hands of an independent research board, for although the subject is one that has been investigated to some extent before, there has as yet been no complete survey of the problem. With a view to supplying this deficiency, the National Research Council has appointed a committee to supervise the inquiry, which will be undertaken by the Harvard Medical School and its department of Preventive Medicine and Hygiene. The work has been entrusted to Dr. M. J. Rosenau of Harvard, who is one of the most eminent pharmacological chemists in the country. The results of the research will be published through regular scientific channels from time to time, but it is expected that it may be a matter of three years or more before the ground is completely covered.

MUNICIPAL FUEL PROJECT A SUCCESS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Wausau, March 15.—Wausau's municipal wood yard is a success, it was said today. Wood has been sold to consumers at cost and the schools have been supplied from shipments received by the city, including freight and drayage, the wood cost the city about $6.40 a cord. Birchwood was sold to the city for $5.90 a cord, and consumers purchased it at the cost price.

A co-operative movement for the purchase of coal by consumers in carload lots has been started. Two owners and two tenants of business buildings recently ordered a car which they bought at $7 a ton, including freight and drayage.

GOVERNMENT HANDLES FOOD IN PETROGRAD

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
London, March 15.—The management of all food supplies in the Petrograd district is to be placed in the hands of municipal authorities. This decision was reached, Reuter's correspondent telegraphs, at an extraordinary conference held yesterday to deal with the food problem at the capital, which is said to be urgent. The Duma will be asked to vote the necessary extension of power to enable the municipality to deal with the matter during the war.

RACINE ELKS PREPARE FOR 1918 BOWLING MEET.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Racine, March 14.—Preparations are already under way here to entertain the 1918 bowling tournament of the Elks to be held here early next year. The 1917 meet has just been finished at Sheboygan.

AMERICAN AVIATOR WINS DECORATION

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Paris, March 15.—The American aviator, Sergeant Major Raoul Lufbery, has been decorated with the cross of the Legion of Honor. The announcement gives the following reason: "Enlisted under the French flag for duration of the war, he has given proof as aviator of remarkable boldness and has brought down up to December 27, 1916, six enemy machines, has already been twice mentioned in army orders and decorated with the military medal."

The Cross of the Legion of Honor is only conferred on men in the ranks for exceptionally distinguished service. Sergeant Lufbery spent his early years in New Haven, Conn. His parents died when he was very young, and he was adopted by a family at Bourges, France. At thirteen he ran away and wandered all over the world, turning his hand to many trades. In Asia he met the aviator, Marc Pourpe, who trained him as his assistant. Lufbery discovered for the first time that he was an American when he attempted to enlist with Pourpe at the outbreak of the war and was rejected on account of his nationality. He was finally permitted to go to the front as Pourpe's mechanic. The aviator was killed shortly afterward and Lufbery swore to avenge him. He imported the French authorities for permission to be trained as a pilot, and his request was finally granted. His first three German machines were brought down within ten days. Since the date mentioned in the Legion of

Honor certificate. Sergeant Lufbery has destroyed a seventh German machine. EX-CONVICT PROBLEM GREAT FOR GERMANY

Berlin, March 15.—What to do with the ex-convicts who, when sentenced, lost their rights to citizenship and therefore may not belong to the army and fight for the fatherland, is a problem that is occupying public attention to an increasing degree.
It is estimated that there are in the empire at least 100,000 able-bodied men of military age, now at liberty after having served prison sentences, whose work for the government in the aggregate would be of tremendous value if a way could be found to utilize it.

Yet they cannot be sent to the front in regiments composed of men who have never been guilty of criminal acts, because the soldiers would not tolerate their presence. Nor is it feasible to form special companies, for particularly hazardous duty. Such duty is regarded by the average soldier as a special honor which he would be loath to surrender to men branded by imprisonment. Nor is it felt that it would be safe to entrust important posts to men in whom implicit confidence cannot be placed.
The latest and apparently most welcome suggestion is that the ex-convicts, and even convicts now serving terms, should be formed into special working bodies, and put at some kind of labor for the military authorities, whether at the front or at home.

BRAVE SUBSEA PERILS IN HERRING FISHING

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Paris, March 15.—The herring fishermen are counted high among the war heroes by the housewives of Paris. Braving submarine menaces in the most dangerous zone, they have caught enough herring this season to drive the smoked variety down from three and one-half cents to two cents a pound; it enjoys the distinction of being the only provision that has gone back to normal prices.
The mysterious migration of the herring brings it in immense shoals from the North Sea into the English Channel, and along the coasts of Normandy at the beginning of October each year to disappear in February somewhere off the mouth of the Seine. In the meantime their feeding ground is the same as that of the German submarine.

Precautions were taken to protect the fishing fleet this year and its work was unhindered and prolific. Only once, at the beginning of the season, did a submarine emerge in the midst of the fleet. It found it prudent to plunge again without attacking.
The fleet was ordered to keep out of the North Sea this year, which shortened the season three months out of a total of seven, yet the catch is estimated at 30,000 tons as against 45,000 tons in a normal year.
The catch was so heavy as to damage the nets frequently and in some instances they were carried away. One sloop in two tides landed $12,000 worth of herring at Boulogne.
The fleet of thirty big Boulogne "tuggers" that have been engaged in the fishery will, at the end of the season, be used for coasting trade, transporting coal and grain.

MEXICO PUTTING BAN ON GAMBLING DEVICES

Mexico City, March 15.—Gambling of chance and skill have been pretty well banished from the cafes of Mexico City which are strictly regulated. Among the Latin races, which was played almost universally in the cafes, has been prohibited by order of the police. Dice also have been confiscated.
Practically the only game which remains has no other name than "marking the paper." It is a slight game, complicated "it is not three in a row." The cafes and cantinas or saloons of the capital close at 3 p. m. and remain closed until 5:30 p. m. They then reopen until 9 when they close for the night.

WIRE COMMUNICATION IN MILWAUKEE IS LAMAGED

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Milwaukee, Wis., March 15.—A storm of Tuesday night and Wednesday morning demolished telegraph and telephone wires in such a manner that service was crippled in all directions out of Milwaukee all day Wednesday. Large crews of linemen have been dispatched to various sections to repair broken wires. Communication on Wednesday was made possible in some instances only in long roundabout directions.
